

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

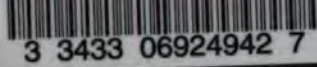

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE

Public Affairs Information Service, in its eighth year, has followed its original aim of undertaking to furnish a ready index to the best material obtainable on questions of vital public concern. In the fulfillment of that aim it has become a unique service, different alike from the technical and magazine indexes and from the commercial informational services. Its work is the discovery of new and unusual sources of information about public affairs and the assembling of the knowledge gained in such form as to make it immediately accessible to the inquirer.

Few changes of great moment are needed from one year to another in an index whose purpose is so plain; and this volume follows in its main outlines the scheme of its predecessors. The entries have been carefully examined for their intrinsic value as well as for their timeliness, and such changes as have been made are mainly in the matter of subject heading or form of entry. As a result of the selective process used in its compilation, Public Affairs Information Service in its weekly form is a useful aid to the small library which is building up its collection, and in its final form is a reference tool of value to a library of any size.

Periodicals

The University of the State of New York Bulletin to the Schools, which for the past seven years, has appeared bi-monthly as a broadside, changed with the first issue of volume 8, dated October 1, 1921, to convenient magazine form. The enlarged bulletin will be utilized for the dissemination of news items of interest to the teachers of the state, and many departmental announcements heretofore sent out in circular letters will be published in its pages. It will be used as a medium of information to the teaching force of the state regarding new policies, the trend of educational thought, legislation, and all matters in which they should be interested. An index will be issued upon the completion of the volume. The Bulletin is sent without charge to all schools of the state and to individuals engaged in educational work. To others the price is 50c a year; 5c for single numbers.

the reader back to the beginning of the century, and traces movements and tendencies throughout to the end of the year 1921. The work contains thousands of tables, many of them exclusively computed by the Year book's own contributors.

On the invitation of Secretary Hoover of the United States department of commerce, the National association of manufacturers has named an Advisory committee of manufacturers representing different lines of industry to cooperate with the Department of commerce and to afford an agency for coordinating the work of committees of trade associations who are concerned with the particular problems of their trade and to be of service to industry and the Department of commerce in problems of common interest, both to industry and government departments. One of the very important problems to which the committee will give immediate consideration is the matter of the reorganization of government departments with a view of bringing to various lines of industry the importance of this subject and the need for prompt legislation with respect thereto. The names of the members of this Advisory committee are given in the Washington Service Bulletin, no. 89, issued Dec. 15, 1921 by the National association of manufacturers of the United States of America, 30 Church st. N.Y.

Juvenile delinquents

The Commonwealth fund has recently announced plans for a five-year demonstration of methods for the prevention of delinquency. The New York school of social work, the National visiting teachers' association and the National committee for mental hygiene, working under a joint committee, will cooperate in the demonstration. The program is based upon the belief that maladjustment in childhood is a predisposing cause of adult delinquency, and that delinquency can be more successfully handled when the first indications of something wrong appear than later when the pattern is set. Effort will, accordingly, be centered on the child of public school age. A joint committee, known as the Joint committee on methods of preventing delinquency has been formed to coordinate the activities of the three agencies sharing in the program and to analyze and publish the results of their work and of other activities in the same field. Further information may be obtained from the committee, 52 Vanderbilt av, N.Y.

Mr Stover's plan is simplicity itself. Substitute for the gold standard a standard of irredeemable legal tender paper . . . The control of the currency would be vested in a monetary commission of a non-political character."

International clearing-house of civic information. Am City 26:348 Ap '22

The United States department of commerce is proposing to organize, in its Division of construction and housing, a bureau or center to be affiliated with the International union of cities with headquarters in Brussels, Belgium. If organized, this American center, in cooperation with the Library of Congress, will collect and digest contemporary American civic data, contributing this to the international organization, will contribute a small sum annually as America's share toward the support of the central office, and will receive from it current civic data from European and other civilized countries. The national center will then distribute to our communities and civic organizations these data in regard to worldwide civic conditions. The data are disseminated from Brussels by means of a series of pamphlets containing brief reviews of municipal documents.

The University center for research in Washington has been established for the promotion of research in archives, libraries and other collections located in the District of Columbia on the part of students in the graduate departments of American and foreign universities and of others. The organization is the outcome of a movement originated in May, 1916, by representatives of the departments of history and political science in several of the larger universities meeting in conference at Columbia university. The center is maintained by a voluntary organization of scholars, and its activities are for the present limited to the fields of history, political science, economics and statistics, and international law and diplomacy. The secretary of the new organization is Samuel P. Capen, American council on education, Washington, D.C.

Governors' messages, 1922

Rhode Island—Gov. San Souci recommends that the state accept the provisions of the law offering federal aid for state roads and provide for funds equal to the allotment due Rhode Island.

Governors' messages, 1922

- Mississippi—Gov. Russell recommends that the state highway engineer and the Highway commission be empowered to outline a complete highway system covering the entire state.
- New Jersey—Gov. Edwards recommends the incorporation in the state highway system of Sylvan avenue and the Boulevard in the borough of Englewood Cliffs, Tenafly and Alpine, in Bergen county, and the improvement of said road so as to furnish a ready means of access to the Interstate park.
- Virginia—Gov. Davis recommends the appointment of a legislative committee to investigate the affairs of the State highway department, as requested by the commissioner of highways, and to report as early as possible, during the present session of the General assembly, so that the benefit of the report may be had in the legislation that may be enacted having to do with the state highway system.

Prepared at the request of the Personnel research federation to provide information about existing agencies in the field of personnel research as a prerequisite to the coordination of its work. The Federation was organized in March, 1921 under the auspices of the National research council and Engineering foundation for the "correlation of research activities pertaining to personnel in industry, commerce, education and government, wherever such researches are conducted in the spirit and with the methods of science". The agencies, approximately 300, whose activities are described are arranged alphabetically under three heads: Federal; State and municipal; Nonofficial. To facilitate reference to each particular branch of personnel research there is a classified list.

Congress

Congressional Digest: pro and con, is the title of a new periodical published by the Congressional Digest, inc., Munsey bldg, Washington, D.C. The price is $5; single numbers 50c. The first few issues were called the Capitol Eye. Its purpose is to furnish information about important pending legislation. With the digest of an important bill is given its history in Congress, the committee report, a statement in its defense by its author and a signed statement by one of its opponents. Favorable and unfavorable opinions of organizations outside Congress are also printed. A query column gives answers to questions relating to Congress and its procedure by the clerk of the House of representatives. The management undertakes to supply detailed reports on legislation. Rates on request.

"The simple plan here is to explain the constitution by a note to every line or clause that has a historical story or drama back of it, or that has contributed during the one hundred thirty-three years of our life under this instrument to the national or the international welfare of mankind. This method leaves the text of the constitution and the amendments in unbroken connection, so that the whole great design is visible, and the explanation appears immediately under the part to be explained."

- The Foreign policy association, is a group of students of international affairs organized in 1918 for the purpose of "exploring and crystallizing latent interest in liberal democratic policies for which America stands in the great war and for which there is no organization at home". The group worked towards two ends: 1, the better understanding of all sides of every important international question affecting the United States, and 2, communication of the results of such study to as large a number of liberal-minded Americans as possible, to the end that there might be a better public understanding of what our foreign problems are and of how they may be dealt with most effectually. In the pursuit of these aims, the group favored the establishment of some sort of international organization as a substitute for international anarchy; and therefore resolved itself into the League of free nations association. In March, 1921, the name of the organization was changed to its present form. It maintains a central office in New York city, from which monthly bulletins are issued. University center for research in Washington

The University center for research in Washington has been established for the promotion of research in archives, libraries and other collections located in the District of Columbia on the part of students in the graduate departments of American and foreign universities and of others. The organization is the outcome of a movement originated in May, 1916, by representatives of the departments of history and political science in several of the larger universities meeting in conference at Columbia university. The center is maintained by a voluntary organization of scholars, and its activities are for the present limited to the fields of history, political science, economics and statistics, and international law and diplomacy. The secretary of the new organization is Samuel P. Capen, American council on education, Washington, D.C.
